Fleet of Steamers Race Across Sea to Succor Passengers and Crew of La Touraine

LONDON, March 6, 10:20 a. m.—The steamship La Touraine is afire at latitude 48.06 north and longitude 20.11 west, according to a wireless message received here. Five steamers have gone to the assistance of La Touraine, the message said.

The message telling of the fire was received by Lloyds from the wireless station at Valencia, Ireland. In addition to giving the position of La Touraine, it stated that the steamers Rotterdam, Swannmoore, Cornishman, Arabic and others were going to her assistance.

A message from Queenstown this afternoon says that the fire on La Touraine is "fierce." Otherwise this message is a repetition of the one received by Lloyds from the wireless station at Valencia, Ireland. The ship is now 200 miles west of the destination at Havre, France.

The London office of the Compagnie Generale Trans-Atlantique, which owns La Touraine, is without special information concerning the vessel.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon it was announced at the local offices of the line that no information as to the steamer was expected until Monday, and the offices were closed for the usual Saturday half holiday. The list of steerage passengers included five Frenchmen and seven Belgians, said to be reservists. Most of the others were from New York and Montreal.

CONTRABAND IN CARGO OF SHIP

NEW YORK, March 6.—When La Touraine sailed away from this port last Saturday she had aboard eighty-four passengers, of whom thirty-eight were in the first cabin, the remaining forty-six being in the steerage. The vessel was one of the six big liners to leave this port the same day, the sailings being the heaviest recorded here for some time.

At the local offices of the French line it was said this morning that no information regarding La Touraine had been received. Maritime circles, however, received word from abroad that all the passengers and crew were safe, but this information was not confirmed here.

On board La Touraine were 4494 cases of cartridges intended for use in the European war. The first cabin passenger list follows:

- AUGUSTE GOULET, Montreal.
- GASTON LEVY, New York.
- B. FEINBERG, Brooklyn.
- DR. J. L. WHEELWRIGHT, New York.

VANDERBILT CUP IS PRIZE

WINNER OF GRAND PRIX SETS DARING PACE

HOW THE RACE IS GOING

At the end of twenty-five laps the leading racers in the Vanderbilt cup race at the Exposition course stood as follows:
Number 1—Resta, Peugeot, 1:25:34; average 67½ miles an hour.
Number 2—Burman, Big Case, 1:27:10.
Number 3—Disbrow, Simplex, 1:28:02.
Number 4—Carlson, Maxwell, 1:28:10.
Number 5—Ruckstell, Mercer, 1:28:36.

TRIBUNE BUREAU, PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION, March 6.—Darius Resta, winner of the Grand Prix race last week, jumped into the lead at the twentieth lap in the Vanderbilt Cup race today, and at the twenty-fifth lap had gained considerably on his advantage.

At 12 o'clock the drivers lined up with their cars in front of the starting line while the crowd in the official grandstand stood in their seats and cheered. After drivers and mechanics had their pictures taken, they took their places in the cars and at precisely 12:30 o'clock the race was started.

The first to get off were Ralph De Palma in his Mercedes, R. C. Durant in his Chevrolet and last week's Grand Prix winner, Resta, driving his Peugeot. De Palma, who has been the winner of the last two Vanderbilt cup races, spurred forth at the start and took the lead. He was still in first place after completing the first lap. A close second was Resta and the third place was taken by Rickenbacker in his Maxwell, who had started fifteen seconds behind the leaders. Pullen, in a Mercer, and Bragg, driving a Californian, were neck and neck as they passed the judges' stand, remaining in the precise position that they had started in.

The fifth man on the lap was Ruckstell, driving a Mercer. The other cars came in behind with Barney Oldfield leading Parsons and Hoarua who had started with him. The crowd cheered Oldfield, De Palma, Resta, Hughes and Burman to the echo every time they passed the grandstand.

On the second lap De Palma in his Mercedes still led, but Ruckbacker had passed Resta for second place and Pullen had managed to draw up in front with Bragg.

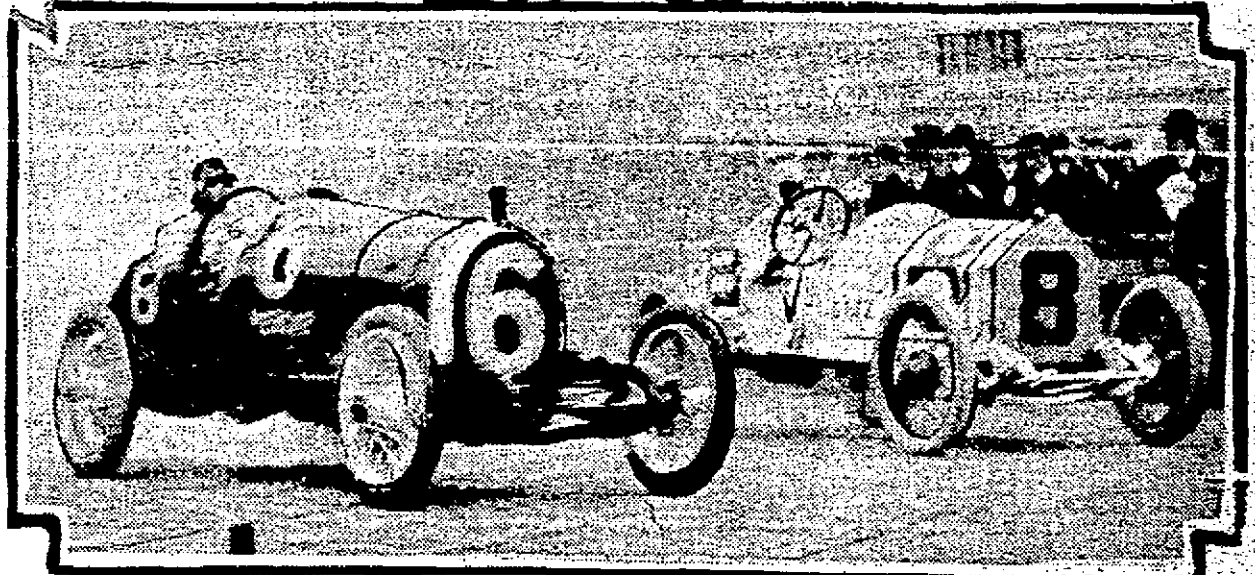

The drivers did not hesitate to speed up on the curves, making much better time than on the slippery track a week ago and taking far more chances. The crowd had been kept well back from the curve lines and the racers were not forced to consider possible injury to spectators in taking the turns.

The Exposition officials estimated that the crowd was at least twice as large as that of last Sunday, which would place the numbers at approximately 135,000, but to the eye of the casual spectator there seemed to be three times last week's aggregation along the course.

SOLDIERS CLEAR COURSE. As the crowds were pouring into the fair grounds it was difficult to clear the track and the soldiers were forced to use the authority given them in making spectators obey the rules. Several automobiles were used finally to warn away those who had attempted to use the track as a thoroughfare.

Governor Johnson arrived early and took his seat in the box reserved for him. He was accompanied by his wife and sons and several invited guests.

Mayor Rolph was late. He arrived

SIREN SOUGHT FOR ALLEGED FRAUD

Trailled by means of a succession of alleged worthless checks, a woman giving the name of Mrs. W. Gradl is said to be pursuing in a $5000 limousine a merry course through California cities. Oakland and Berkeley police have joined the detectives of the American Bankers' Association in an attempt to come up with the fair automobile and the two men who drive with her, representing themselves to be her husband and chauffeur. Such is the report made today by the Oakland police.

S. N. Wood, 1. Magnin, Roos Brothers, The Emporium, the St. Francis Hotel and numerous other institutions about the bay are said to be equally anxious with the bankers' detectives to catch up with the elusive siren.

For in all the places where Mrs. Gradl has appeared the clerks were described as so overcome by the sight of the rich machine on the curb and the fascinations of the beautiful woman, Gradl, that they could not think of refusing the checks which she tendered. Her latest appearance was reported at the Cap and Town, 2142 Center street, Berkeley, where she offered a check for $10 on the First National Bank. In the absence of D. Abraham, the proprietor, a clerk willingly cashed the paper, which came back hastily from the bank marked "No Funds," according to the official report.

THEN COMES ASSISTANCE. The Berkeley police were hardly at work on this case before representatives of the American Bankers' Association appeared with a list in a note-book of chapter after chapter of the official report.

Fires at Random, Kills Four, Wounds Five Before Slain

BRUNSWICK, Ga., March 6.—Four men, including H. F. Dunwoody, a prominent attorney, were shot and killed and five others seriously wounded here today by Monroe Phillips, a lumberman, who fired at random on the street. Phillips himself was killed by a policeman.

The others killed were: W. M. Hackett, an undertaker; Rex Devers, a policeman, and W. P. Padgett, a former policeman. Several of the wounded are prominent citizens of Brunswick.

Worry over financial difficulties, which he blamed on others, is said to have made Phillips insane. Phillips first went to the office of Dunwoody and opened fire on the lawyer with a shotgun, killing him almost instantly. From a neighboring street corner the lumberman then began shooting at everyone in sight. Before he was killed, Phillips, in addition to killing four men, had seriously wounded five and slightly wounded about fifteen others.

German Loss 3,000,000, Says Press Bureau

PARIS, March 6, 4:20 p. m.—An official note issued by the French press bureau declares that the German losses since the beginning of hostilities in killed, wounded, sick and prisoners reaches the enormous total of 3,000,000 men. This calculation is based on the known casualties in ten German regiments.

Says 600 Died in Big Railroad Wreck

BOSTON, March 6.—Report of a railroad accident in Mexico last January in which 600 lives were lost is contained in a letter received today by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions from one of its representatives at Manzanillo on the West Mexican Coast.

NEW CRISIS IN MEXICAN AFFAIR

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The foreign diplomatic corps in Mexico City has decided to leave in a body. Dispatches telling of the decision were received here today by European diplomats and forwarded to their home governments. The Mexican situation, topped by this latest development, was admitted in all quarters to be more critical than it has been at any time since Huerta precipitated the landing of troops at Vera Cruz.

Secretary Bryan has received today no word from the latest representations to Carranza against General Obregon's decree in Mexico City and his threat to leave the capital unprotected, with water and light plants out of commission and the attendant possibilities of looting and killing. Mr. Bryan did not comment further today than to say that the situation continued to be bad.

VILLA IS RECEPTIVE

Villa has invited the diplomatic corps to join him at his capital in Chihuahua. To do so, it was pointed out, might be construed as recognition of his faction. Without diplomatic representatives in Mexico City, the capital and a large portion of the distressed country would probably be cut off from the world. While the foreign colony in the Mexican capital.

the cup by the third-time winner. The cup is in the hands of the Vanderbilt cup commission, and is a permanent challenge trophy that must be competed for once a year.

Some of the strongest teams ever assembled for automobile racing were in the line-up. When the Starter, Fred Wagner, when the flag of the pistol started the big race, Eddie Pullen, winner of the Grand Prix last year, and the recent Corona road race, with G. E. Ruckstell and Louis Nikrent, handled the big Mercer cars, and Howard Wilcox, Gil Anderson and Harry Grant were at the wheels of the Stutz machines.
Both these teams are noted for achievement in the past. Cheers greeted their appearance.

BARNEY'S CIGAR THERE

Barney Oldfield, with the ever-present cigar and the little Maxwell cup, headed the team composed of himself, Eddie Rickenbacker and Elly Carlson. The latter two, intrepid veterans and worthy proteges
of the veteran of the speed track, have been doing some sensational work in the tryouts, and were known to many of the spectators who have been watching the preliminary running of the cars over the track
during the past week. Louis Disbrow,
Caleb Bragg, Hughie Hughes, Darius
Resta, who won the Grand Prix last week, and the others, were all at the pits, ready.

Thirty-one speed kings were listed
for the start when the commission
officials looked over the cars, drivers and mechanics. The drivers looked among each other as the cars were being tuned up by the mechanics.
Several of the big men of the speed delegation freely predicted the setting of a new record, and a number even asserted that practice runs had proved without a doubt that, despite the popular belief that the exposition track was unsuited to racing, the track was one of the most advantageous speed tracks in California.

While in all cases the drivers on the field were friendly and courteous, and a bluff good-fellowship seemed to rule among the speed kings, the undercurrent of intense rivalry was always seen. The big speed kings fondled their steering wheels, and each proudly predicted that his car

and his car only, would "bring home
the bacon."

Long before the starter's pistol cracked every grandstand was jammed.

Suspect Poisoning
Caused Woman's Death

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Suffering either from a beating or from opium poisoning, Mrs. L. Stead, 35 years old, was taken from her home, 1205 Golden Gate avenue, this afternoon and transferred to the Central Emergency Hospi-

police are investigating several mystericondition.

Officers were detailed to question her husband as to what he might know about the charge that the woman was either beaten or was administered poison.

STARVING GIRLS MAKE BANDAGES FOR WOUNDED

NEW YORK, March 6.—Organized efforts to assist the unemployed in this city took further shape when 100 destitute young women reported for work at the Salvation Army headquarters and were set to work making bandages and other first aid supplies for wounded soldiers in Europe.

Some of the girls were literally starving, so weak and famished that they were unable to operate the bandage rolling machine. Col. J. E.
Barnett took them to the fourth floor and let them loose in a temporary restaurant. The girls will receive $1 a day and be furnished with luncheon.

FORMER DEPUTY AUDITOR
DICKERSON PASSES

William Dickerson, former deputy au-

clerk of the assembly at Sacramento,
died at his home in the latter city today, following a short illness. News of his death was received by Captain of Police Inspectors L. F. Agnew, an old friend of the deceased. Agnew will make the funeral arrangements in the absence of Dickerson's relatives, who reside in Seattle.

Dickerson was a resident of Oakland for many years, and was prominent in municipal political circles. He made his home in Sacramento since his appointment several years ago as clerk to the assembly.

the car became unfastened. The steer,
after performing a series of acrobatic stunts, picked himself up minus one horn and walked to the F. C. Hodges yard on the Plumer farm.

CRITICISE POLICY.

"We should take charge of affairs of abandon the Monroe doctrine," he said at the White House. "Something must be done to stop the reign of anarchy and set up a government which can protect the rights of all foreigners."
Juan H. Amador, head of General Carranza's agency here, today declared in a formal statement that reports of the gravity of the situation had been "grossly exaggerated." He declared that General Obregon would do nothing to "cause
needless suffering."

"It is ridiculous to talk of a panic in Mexico City similar to that which took place in Peking during the Boxer uprising," he said. "No foreigners who conducts himself properly need fear any injury in Mexico City. General Obregon will leave Mexico City only to move north against Villa. If General Obregon has been compelled to use drastic measures to enforce the collection of a legal tax that has been imposed, this has been entirely the fault of taxpayers, who have endeavored to escape the just payment of their taxes."

STARVATION THREATENS.

Administration officials today warned
with some interest further developments in the grave situation in Mexico City,
where starvation threatens.

Urgent representations by the American government have been made to General Carranza through American Consul Sullivan, that he direct his commander,
General Obregon, to accept the proffer of aid to Mexico City's needy from the international relief committee, composed of foreign residents. General Obregon, who had refused to accept the proffer,
is reported to have declared that Mexico
was in no need of such aid. Foreign diplomats here, however, are pessimistic
over the situation in the Mexican capital.

The American government has appointed to Carranza to instruct Obregon to adopt measures for the protection of lives and property of foreigners if Mexico City is evacuated.

TERROR REIGNS.

The population is terror stricken because of Obregon's announced intent not to prevent looting and pillaging in food or money. Officials here are now too optimistic that Carranza will be the "recommendations because of his resolute character to do so."

Conditions in Mexico City are described in reports to officials and diplomats here
as being far worse than ever before.
President Wilson and his advisers are giving the matter the closest attention.
Pending the outcome, however, of the representations, the American government probably will take no further action. Among diplomats the opinion prevails that in case General Obregon continues to refuse outside aid, drastic steps may be necessary. In official circles an allied expedition similar to the one that relieved the legation at Peking during the Boxer uprising, was being talked of.

the woman's alleged operations. On Friday of last week she was in Chico,
by Tuesday she had got to Stockton,
and on Wednesday, Placerville merchants were bowing and smiling at her pleasure. Moreover, a Fresno bank, according to the detective, suffered a loss through her operations, as well as numerous places
about the bay.

According to their account, Mrs.
Grady was a former Miss Eva Davis.
They declare she is a niece of M. L.
McCray, a Los Angeles millionaire living on Ocean View avenue in that city.

At the Berkeley store, where it is charged she cashed her check, she is known to have been staying temporarily at the St. Francis Hotel and that she was connected in a business way with the real estate firm of M. T. Minner of Oakland.

She is described as being fashionably gowned, rather tall in stature and of fascinating beauty. Descriptions tally in making her age about 28 years.

FRIEND IS SURPRISED.

Most surprised of all people in Berkeley by the alleged operations of Mrs. Grady is Mrs. D. R. McNeil, wife of the well-known Claremont capitalist, and her daughter, residing at 1 El Camino Real. Four years ago, when the McNeils were visiting in Los Angeles, they met the woman at social functions there before her marriage. Last month she drove up to the door of their residence in her limousine and introduced to them her husband, who, she said, was in the real estate business. After a brief visit she departed for San Francisco,
but in a few days there began coming to the McNeil residence a stream of bills and requests for information addressed to Mrs. Grady at that number.

The police allege that she had given the McNeil home as her residence and that this fact had assisted her,
apparently, in establishing the worth of her account. According to the police she opened an account for a small sum at the St. Francis Bank early in February and some time later
paid a check to the H. C. Capwell Company. The amount of her original deposit was quickly exhausted,
but the checks did not cease coming.
They came from several valley cities
as well as around the bay.

FANCY COSTUMES.

One bill of goods was paid for by a check which it is alleged she gave to D. Hamberger for a large quantity of beautiful French lingerie, for which she seemed to have a penchant.

"We met Mrs. Grady when she was Miss Davis at several social affairs in Los Angeles," declared Mrs. McNeil
this morning. "She and my daughter were friendly, but not intimate, and we were therefore particularly surprised at the visit she paid to us. She declared that she had been but recently married and that the automobile trip which she was taking was the continuation of her honeymoon. She had come here, she declared, from Stockton and left her home to go to San Francisco.

"She did not stay here more than an hour and so had no reason for giving this as her residence."

IRENE PICKERING SENT TO WHITTIER SCHOOLIrene Pickering, who was brought back here from Salt Lake City under arrest on a charge of having pawned a diamond ring said to have been given her by Allen E. King, manager of an Eight Street theater, was committed to the Whittier reform school for girls by Superior Judge Wells in the juvenile court today.

After her return to Oakland Miss Pickering related to the police that she and King had been good friends and that he manifested his affection for her by letting her wear his diamond ring, said to be worth $500. As he had it altered to fit her finger, the girl concluded, she said, that it was an outright gift and that she might dispose of it if she desired. Accordingly, she pawned it for a sum over $100, and with the proceeds purchased a railroad ticket to Salt Lake City.

Testimony showed that the girl was a minor and Judge Wells declared her a delinquent under the provisions of the juvenile act and committed her. She will be taken to Whittier Monday.

WANDERER IN SPIRIT LAND SUE

"Rev." Oscar Haas, of Gold Wing Occultism, Faces Charge of Fraud.

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—"Those whom the gods would destroy, they first make foolish."

That was the statement, voiced in open court, that rendered Prosecuting Attorney Arthur Keetch a fitting candidate for destruction, and that drew the first laugh since the trial began of "Rev." Oscar Haas, pastor of the Eastern Star Spiritual Church, wearer of a gold wig, and at present facing trial on a charge of fraud.

Long stories by witnesses who believed Haas was advised by spirits, and long recitals of mystic apparitions and wonderful spirit messages figured in the trial, which is dragging its way through the superior court here.

The pastor is accused by Mrs. Pearl Flynn, who said she believed Haas was in communication with spirits who answered his every beck and call, the reason for so believing was that Haas told her they did—that from the time he was seven years old he had had as a valet the shade of White Eagle, a dead Indian chief.

TRAVELED AT WILL.

"He told us that all he had to do was to close his eyes and that instantly he could travel in his astral body into any home and hear all that was said," he warned us not to talk to him, or other astral beings, in a derogatory manner," declared Mrs. Flynn.

Haas' famous resort scheme at Banning, in Riverside county, was exploited in complete detail. Most of the time the courtroom was in a turmoil.

When the prosecutor became exasperated at the taunts of Schenck, the latter retorted:

"Whom the gods would destroy they first make foolish."

Mrs. Flynn proceeded to unfold the mysteries of cabinet meetings and alleged materializations in the Haas home. She produced a spirit photograph which she said Haas claimed to have taken during a materialization.

The photograph was shown to the jury.

It was of such a character that spectators shuddered as they declared it to be sacrilegious.

"He said Divine beings constantly came to him and gave him advice, and he said my mother's spirit was constantly urging me to invest my money in his land and schemes," declared the witness.

"Did you believe him?" asked Prosecutor Keetch.

"Oh, yes, we trusted him implicitly," Mrs. Flynn declared that before she saw the land at Banning that she and her husband had invested nearly $2000.

She declared that he induced her to pay $300 an acre for land which the state contents was purchased for less than $30 an acre.

Proclaimed President of North Portugal

By Associated Press.

LONDON, March 6, 5:20 p. m.—General Antonio Xavier Cereira Barreto has been proclaimed president of the republic of North Portugal.

A congress of Democrats, who have been in session at Lamego, according to a dispatch received here today by the Fabra News Agency from Madrid. This news reached Madrid by way of Badajoz.

The course of the republic of Portugal since its establishment five years ago, following the assassination of King Carlos, has been marked by political dissension and strife.

Reports of Portuguese agitation from Lisbon have been more or less frequent, and these latter have been superseded by indications of another movement, the democratic or radical, which in the last few months has shown itself strongly opposed to the existing republican government.

Portugal, by treaty obligations with Great Britain, was bound to send 10,000 men to fight with the troops of King George upon request. So far as is known, Great Britain has made no such demand on Portugal, and there are no Portuguese troops fighting in Europe.

Little has been published concerning Portugal's attitude in the present war, due largely to the censorship.

It is a fact, however, that Portuguese troops have been fighting German soldiers in Portuguese West Africa, otherwise known as Angola.

The German troops in question came into the Portuguese colony from German Southwest Africa.

There was an uprising in Lisbon January 15 of the people against the military. This movement was described as a protest against the policy of the government as exemplified in the administration of the army and navy. It apparently came to an end when certain Portuguese officers surrendered their arms.

An attempt was made in the latter part of February to assassinate Alfonso Costa, a former premier.

Warrensburg Normal Destroyed by Fire

WARRENSBURG, Mo., March 6.—The Warrensburg State Normal School here was destroyed by fire early today.

The manual arts building and the gymnasium, which were apart from the remainder of the buildings, were saved.

FRENCH WONDER AT INDIAN TROOPS SHIP AFIRE WITH BALKAN STATES MAY ENTER WAR

Furnish Picturesque Relief From Monotony

(By FREDERICK PALMER.)

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, via London, March 6.—The picturesqueness of the Indian troops of the British Empire breaks the monotony of the grim, colorless business of modern war at the British front. The little mule carts of these soldiers move about among the powerful motor trucks from England.

It was first feared that the Indians might not stand shell fire well, but they became used to it and now they are even contemptuous of it. Accustomed to a hot and dry climate, the chill and rainy weather and the mud of Northern France has been their worst enemy. When the sun shines a smile spreads over the whole Indian face.

Thanks to many layers of warm clothing and careful attention, the sick record of the Indian troops is normal.

All the food of these men has to be brought from India. Speaking no word of English, these dusky strangers have come from the other side of the world to fight in France for Great Britain. Blinded in battle with thick layers of mud for their beds, each race cooking its food to its taste and according to its caste customs, they form a separate world of never-ceasing wonder to the French inhabitants.

HIDE WITH PRECISION.

This morning there was seen 3000 cavalry keep up on a muddy road with a background of flat and misty landscape with all the precision they would show at a royal review. Occasionally among the dusky faces under the turbans there were the white countenances of the English officers, who had trained these varied tribes and who have stood with them in the trenches in icy water up to their waists against the enemy.

Sir Parthab Singh, 72 years old, rode at the head of his regiment.

"They told me that I was too old," he said, "but I replied 'If you will not let me fight in France I will go to India and fight there. I don't mean to die in my bed, and I cannot live much longer.' So they let me come."

Although all the cavalry is fighting as infantry in the trenches, cavalry officers keep up the cavalry drill, and the horses are in condition. This is because there may be a chance for the cavalry when the expected German breaks camp. Everybody on the line knows the German is going back as if this was as certain as the coming of spring.

One of the British officers with whom the newspaper correspondents watched the Indian troops ride past their trenches, said: "The Canadians in their trenches are now doing well."

The driver of the motor car in which the correspondents were conveyed to the front revealed his Americanism by the use of New York slang. He had had sixteen taxicabs running in New York, but he came over, as the English say, "to do his bit."

ALL WILLING TO HELP.

One meets here Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotsmen from every part of the world, ready to serve in any capacity in the army or navy.

"Now you take this message to all my Irish friends in America for me," said an elderly Irish medical officer in charge of a hospital train. "Tell them I have been sleeping on that car seat for six weeks with the harp alongside of me and the Union Jack over my head. It was a fine time we had when they let me load my train with wounded right where the shells were falling, but they do not permit that any more."

In the outskirts of a village where German shells fall at intervals there was seen infantry detachments practicing at hand grenade attacks and in the defense of trenches. Nobody worried about the danger from German shells while they rent the air with their own explosions of bombs thrown at close quarters.

At another place the correspondent entered a building which seemed neither wholly hospital nor wholly military, riding by on a muddy road.

Y. M. C. A. buildings are scattered in this and many other places. It is not given is because no German airship bombs are wanted. In this particular building men overhauled from their vigil in the trenches remove their filthy clothes, get warm baths and a disinfecting spray and have a warm meal, including bread pudding with raisins or currants in it, of which they are extremely fond.

There are also clean cots where they turn in and a reading room with books and a lighted lamp. More than fourteen days. If in that time they have not sufficiently recovered from the exhausting demands of the trenches to return to the front they are sent back to the base.

Here no one is to be seen who is not a "trench digger," I asked, "ever hesitate to face the horror of the trenches again?"

"Occasionally there is one," was the answer. "That's human nature. We are amazed at how few. When well enough to go back to the front, they will play the game. You know soon what he is going to do."

Before leaving the convalescent home the correspondents were given each an identification metal disc with his name on it. It is best to have this as the German is always looking into the trenches tomorrow."

WAR SUMMARY

Announcement was made by the French war office today that the advance of the allied troops in Champagne is continuing. London reports the allies are making slow but consistent gains in this region, although Berlin makes no such concessions.

The general staff of the Russian Caucasus army reported that a further advance into Turkish Armenia had been made by the forces which recently moved forward from Batum along the shore of the Black Sea. This army is said to have cut off Turkish communications with Constantinople.

Petrograd dispatches state that the Russian offensive in Galicia and Bukovina is continuing. It is believed at Petrograd that the great Austro-German encircling movement in this region has failed and that the right wing of the German army is in danger of being flanked by the Russians.

There were indications in today's cable dispatches that the bombardment of the gathering force and that a decision of the attitude of the Balkan states concerning the war. The possibility of the capture of Constantinople, which would result in changes of vital interest to the Balkan nations, is reported as a noticeable influence on these nations.

Bulgaria is said to have mobilized secretly three divisions, or about 30,000 men, and one of these divisions is reported to have been sent to an unknown destination. In Rumania the Chamber of Deputies is considering the granting of $80,000,000 to the government for military purposes and the calling to the colors of the 1915 recruits. Greece is awaiting eagerly the decision of the crown council concerning intervention in the war and an Athens dispatch states that popular feeling is in favor of such a step.

The attack on the Dardanelles forts is proceeding steadily, although it is still a question what it has accomplished. A Paris newspaper states that one-third of the straits has been cleared of mines.

Russia is prosecuting one of the most offensive movements of the war in the east, extending over the whole of the Berlin dispatch yesterday admitted the capture by the Russians of Mysyniec, near the Prussian frontier, but in general it is asserted that the Russian attacks are being repulsed, while Petrograd reports steady progress.

KICKING BRONCHO TO BE FRENCH ARMY STEED

PENDELTON, Ore., March 6.—Cyrus Noble has been added to the list of war heroes. The population of eastern Oregon, which has been reading of shells that turn the Germans green or that scatter death upon the French are awaiting tonight the advent of Cyrus Noble into the theater of war.

Cyrus Noble is one of the most famous kicking bronchos that ever tried to kick holes in the sky at the Pendleton round-up. He was sold today to the French government for use as a cavalry horse. The unsuccessful French officer who purchased Cyrus failed to discover his bucking abilities.

"The world won't be safe for any of us when one of those big guns goes off in his ear," said a burkano who rode Cyrus for ten seconds last year. "He's liable to kick both armies and end the war."

"Alameda county is morally obligated to pass the bond issue. Had the county not been desired to donate this money toward the expedition it should have said so directly after the money was promised. I expect to vote for the bond, and any influence which I may have with the voters will be used in favor of the issue."—J. R. Allen, attorney.

Gillis escaped on October 5, 1914, and on the 15th of October he and Miss Hodge went to San Francisco and took out a marriage license. The crew numbered approximately 200. The vessel was under command of Captain Cassin. It was said, with M. Gaillard as second captain. Two wireless operators, Messrs. Sagot and Violent, were aboard.

CARGO CONTAINS DANGER.

Stored away in the vessel's hold was the ammunition, which caused great apprehension as to the vessel's fate when it became known that a fire was raging aboard. It was estimated that the shipment contained at the very least half a million rounds and possibly several times that much.

Wireless stations along the Atlantic seaboard directed value queries through the air to the burning ship and the little fleet of rescuers reported to be around her. While the crackle of the sparks from powerful stations here, it was thought, could be heard by steamers in the Atlantic as far away as La Toune, the wireless plants aboard those steamers were too weak to send back their answers. All news of La Touraine's fate, it was thought, would have to come from the other side of the Atlantic.

La Touraine was heavily laden when she steamed out of the harbor last Sunday. In addition to the thousands of cases of cartridges she carried 139 rapid-fire guns and a varied assortment of supplies for the allies' commissariat. Twelve hundred tons of her cargo consisted of uniforms, cloth for uniforms, sweaters and hosiery for soldiers in the trenches. There were 1500 cases of machinery aboard as well as the army's hand saws, axes, wheels and 275 bars of silver. In addition there was a large assortment of foodstuffs.

La Touraine, under the command of Captain Cassin, is one of the older and fastest liners, having been built in 1911.

Since it was launched, La Touraine has always played an interesting part in the history of ocean travel. It arrived in New York October 28, 1913, with the first of the German foodstuffs. Granium liner Volturino, which was burned at sea with the loss of 132 lives.

Captain Cassin was one of the first carrying capacity of La Touraine was a boat over in the heavy sea to aid in the rescue work. The captain and crew were decorated with medals for their bravery on this occasion.

WARNED TITANIC.

It was the captain of La Touraine who warned the ill-fated Titanic of the presence of icebergs in her course. Once before the steamer was threatened by fire when flames were discovered in the staterooms while the ship was at dock in Lave on January 21, 1912. There were no passengers on board and the damage was not serious. La Touraine was withdrawn from service for a time in 1907 because of serious damage to the machinery. The discovery was made just before the time to sail from New York. On another occasion a number of the crew was killed by the bursting of a steam pipe.

When the European war began the entire carrying capacity of La Touraine was reserved for America's struggling for passage home from France. The steamer arrived in New York December 13, 1914. 36 hours overdue because of hurricanes encountered. His severe weather on the decks while the passengers were battered down below.

The steamer is 520 feet long with a beam of 55 feet and a depth of 34.5 feet.

OFFICIAL WAR STATEMENTS

By Associated Press.

PARIS, March 6, via London, 3:35 p. m.—The war office this afternoon gave out the following account of the events of yesterday at the front:

"Somewhat lively artillery actions occurred around Neuport and Trepas. From the Lys to the Aisne there was an intermittent cannonade."

"In Champagne our progress yesterday in the ravine northwest of Beausieu caused the Germans last night to undertake fresh counter attacks, which were repulsed."

"All our advance in the region of the Lys and the Scheldt yesterday morning's communication has been maintained. Near Visville-en-Haye, northwest of Pont-a-Mousson, a well-directed fire upon a farm caused a panic among the soldiers occupying it. They fled to the woods, pursued by our shells. Near the forest of Narvy whole battalions of Germans unsuccessfully attempted attacks on our outposts."

Stored away in the vessel's hold was the ammunition, which caused great apprehension as to the vessel's fate when it became known that a fire was raging aboard. It was estimated that the shipment contained at the very least half a million rounds and possibly several times that much.

Wireless stations along the Atlantic seaboard directed value queries through the air to the burning ship and the little fleet of rescuers reported to be around her. While the crackle of the sparks from powerful stations here, it was thought, could be heard by steamers in the Atlantic as far away as La Toune, the wireless plants aboard those steamers were too weak to send back their answers. All news of La Touraine's fate, it was thought, would have to come from the other side of the Atlantic.

La Touraine was heavily laden when she steamed out of the harbor last Sunday. In addition to the thousands of cases of cartridges she carried 139 rapid-fire guns and a varied assortment of supplies for the allies' commissariat. Twelve hundred tons of her cargo consisted of uniforms, cloth for uniforms, sweaters and hosiery for soldiers in the trenches. There were 1500 cases of machinery aboard as well as the army's hand saws, axes, wheels and 275 bars of silver. In addition there was a large assortment of foodstuffs.

La Touraine, under the command of Captain Cassin, is one of the older and fastest liners, having been built in 1911.

Since it was launched, La Touraine has always played an interesting part in the history of ocean travel. It arrived in New York October 28, 1913, with the first of the German foodstuffs. Granium liner Volturino, which was burned at sea with the loss of 132 lives.

Captain Cassin was one of the first carrying capacity of La Touraine was a boat over in the heavy sea to aid in the rescue work. The captain and crew were decorated with medals for their bravery on this occasion.

WARNED TITANIC.

It was the captain of La Touraine who warned the ill-fated Titanic of the presence of icebergs in her course. Once before the steamer was threatened by fire when flames were discovered in the staterooms while the ship was at dock in Lave on January 21, 1912. There were no passengers on board and the damage was not serious. La Touraine was withdrawn from service for a time in 1907 because of serious damage to the machinery. The discovery was made just before the time to sail from New York. On another occasion a number of the crew was killed by the bursting of a steam pipe.

When the European war began the entire carrying capacity of La Touraine was reserved for America's struggling for passage home from France. The steamer arrived in New York December 13, 1914. 36 hours overdue because of hurricanes encountered. His severe weather on the decks while the passengers were battered down below.

The steamer is 520 feet long with a beam of 55 feet and a depth of 34.5 feet.

OFFICIAL WAR STATEMENTS

By Associated Press.

PARIS, March 6, via London, 3:35 p. m.—The war office this afternoon gave out the following account of the events of yesterday at the front:

"Somewhat lively artillery actions occurred around Neuport and Trepas. From the Lys to the Aisne there was an intermittent cannonade."

"In Champagne our progress yesterday in the ravine northwest of Beausieu caused the Germans last night to undertake fresh counter attacks, which were repulsed."

"All our advance in the region of the Lys and the Scheldt yesterday morning's communication has been maintained. Near Visville-en-Haye, northwest of Pont-a-Mousson, a well-directed fire upon a farm caused a panic among the soldiers occupying it. They fled to the woods, pursued by our shells. Near the forest of Narvy whole battalions of Germans unsuccessfully attempted attacks on our outposts."

COMMITTS BIGAMY TEN DAYS AFTER JAIL BREAK

Within ten days after John C. Gillis, alias Macdonald, escaped from the city chain gang while serving time for misdemeanor embezzlement he wooed and wed Miss Florence A. Hodge, and now his wife is seeking an annulment in the superior court, explaining that she discovered his deceit all too late.

Gillis escaped on October 5, 1914, and on the 15th of October he and Miss Hodge went to San Francisco and took out a marriage license. At the time Gillis explained to his bride-to-be that it was necessary that he take out the license in the name of Macdonald, as he did not want his friends to know of the marriage and that a double system of recording licenses would include his correct name.

IRISH OF SOUTH TO VISIT FAIR

St. Patrick's Day Exercises to See Big Crowd, Is Telegraphed.

TRIBUNE BUREAU, Panama-Pacific Exposition, March 6.—It will take two special trains to bring the throng of Los Angeles Irishmen and women to the St. Patrick's Day celebration at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, telegraphed Joseph Scott, chairman of the committee of promotion in the southern city and one of the foremost men of Irish birth in the State, to President P. H. McCarthy of the St. Patrick's Day convention, yesterday.

"Never have the Irish societies of this city lined up behind a proposition, and given it such hearty support as the March 17 event. Our delegation will be the largest that ever attended an out-of-town event."

The night letter of Scott is echoed in the communications received by the committee in scores of other California towns where the loyal sons and daughters of Ireland are getting behind the cause to make Ireland's day at the Exposition the greatest in the entire life of the wonder city.

Every day new features are being added to the program. Not a single phase of Irish amusement will be overlooked by the hundreds of committees, the members of which are working every day on their special stunts.

The whole Exposition will take on the appearance of Old Ireland, the gorgeous color scheme of green, suppurative fireworks display and the brilliant green illuminations all providing their share to make up the general effect. G. L. Bayley, chief of the electrical and mechanical department and Darcy Ryan, chief of illumination, at the Exposition, promise to excel all previous attempts at electrical displays.

Supervisor John G. Walsh, of the Mayo County Men, yesterday marched into the headquarters in the Phelps building and plunked down the cash for 500 tickets, the largest single sale of tickets yet made.

He said that the Mayo men had only begun to buy tickets and that before the big day 1500 would be sold.

"None of the old country counties will have a large representation," said Walsh, who, by the way, received the largest vote for supervisor of anyone on the ticket.

Within a few days the associate committee will announce the name of the orator of the day, whom McCarthy promises will be the greatest Irish-American orator.

ANCIENT RITES WILL NOT BE OBSERVED

TRIBUNE BUREAU, P. I. E., March 6.—There will be no ancient rites and no recalling of the past in China's dedication. The customs of Confucius will be forgotten. China, in symbol of her awakening, is to forsake the rites of her forefathers, and a modern dedication will be held.

While the exercises are to be distinctively Chinese, there is to be nothing to hint of the China of the past. Kee Owang, commissioner and director of foreign affairs, and former Chinese consul general in San Francisco, will preside. Commissioner General Chen Shi will make the principal address. Music will be by a Chinese band.

BEST POLO PLAYERS TO GATHER HERE

Many of the Famous Ones Will Play at Fair and San Mateo.

EXPOSITION BUREAU, Panama-Pacific Exposition, March 6.—It is a fairly safe prediction that nothing is to be more popular this spring than polo. The Exposition tournament begins on March 15, lasts six weeks and games may be seen on the Exposition field at least three times each week with two other days of play at San Mateo, probably.

The opportunities to see polo in San Francisco have been limited, the only fields being those at Burlingame and San Mateo and only occasional tournaments have been open to the public. Now will come the chance for everyone either in or out of society to thrill to the fascinations of the ancient Tibetan game with the feats and perils of horsemanship involved in the pursuit of the elusive ball.

It would seem as though this had been quite well waiting for, however, as some of the best American polo is promised. Stars of the first magnitude, men who have grown up in the game and know polo both national and international, will be here with strings of ponies, many of which are quite as well known as their riders.

Social distinction as well as polo prominence marks the players too and there will be all manner of affairs in their honor, both here and in the nearby towns.

Some of those who are expected to arrive within the fortnight are: Malcolm Stevenson of the Cooperstown team, who has been placed at eight goals handicap; Frederic McLaughlin of Chicago, who is now at Coronado; Watson Webb of New York, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Webb formerly Miss Electra Havemeyer; and Mrs. Devreux Milburn, the latter of whom was Miss Steele, daughter of Charles Steele of New York.

Morgan; Hugh Drumry, said to be one of the best "stickmen" in the polo world; Charles Rumsey, known as "Pud" with whom is Mrs. Rumsey, formerly Miss Mary Harriman, the Max Fleischman of Cleveland; Drexel Paul, Howard Phelps, Lowell Stokes and Paul Mills of Philadelphia; Lieut. Lewis Evans of the Monterey team, accompanied by Mrs. Brown, who was Miss Anne Lee, a daughter of General Fitzhugh Lee; Robert Bacon, a son of Robert Bacon, who was American Ambassador to France; Hamilton Corbett, one of the best of the Waverly Club players from Philadelphia; and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Grace of New York.

Nearly one hundred season boxes have been sold and the latest purchasers are Charles W. Clark, Hillsborough; John Griffin Johnson, William M. Fitzhugh, Alex. W. Wilson, E. C. La Motz, the Misses Morrison, San Jose; Alfred Tubbs, P. E. Bowles, Oakland; E. W. Hopkins, P. C. Hale, F. W. Van Sticken.

P. G. & E. WILL HAVE DAY AT EXPOSITION

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company which is supplying the Panama-Pacific Exposition with all the gas and electricity for lighting, heating, the operation of machinery and every other purpose, is to have a day at the Fair all to itself. The day is Monday, March 15, and is to be known as "Pacific Service Day."

So far as possible the day will be observed by the company generally as a holiday. District managers will be called in from the interior and all employees can be spared, together with the members of the families, will join in the celebration. Furthermore, an invitation to participate has been issued to the company's stockholders. A feature of the occasion will be the presentation by President Charles C. Moore of the Exposition company of a bronze tablet in recognition of the work done by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

The service that the illumination of the exhibit palaces and courts in the Exposition grounds is shown to the best advantage.

E. C. Jones, chief engineer of the company's gas department, has been appointed grand marshal of the parade and celebration of the "Pacific Service Day" forces for the day. John A. Britton, vice president and general manager, will take part in the program of exercises in Festival Hall, giving an address upon gas and hydro-electric development. The great organ in Festival Hall will be heard on this occasion, with Wallace A. Sabat in the keyboard.

ARTISANS VIEW WORK OF PAVILION ARTISTS

TRIBUNE BUREAU of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, March 6.—The splendid achievements of their brother craftsmen in the coloring and decorative scheme of the magnificent Exposition buildings were viewed today by the delegates to the Master Painters and Decorators' convention.

The program began at 10 o'clock, when the painters and their wives assembled to look over the grounds. They were entered in a special grandstand for the opening of the Vanderlip cup races and were able to leave their seats at 2 o'clock in order to have luncheon at the Old Numbers Inn. Then followed a sight-seeing tour, the buildings they arranged to be built in their seats at the time of the conclusion of the race.

FREE MILK BATHS ON MARIN COUNTY DAY

TRIBUNE BUREAU, P. I. E., March 6.—Who wants a milk bath? They can have it on Marin county day, March 11, say the Marin committee men. Two thousand gallons of sterilized milk will be given away, fresh from the great dairies on the hills of the neighboring county.

Only a part will be set aside for bathing purposes. The greater part will be served to the Exposition visitors.

Another Big Record Breaking Crowd Assembles Today.

TRIBUNE BUREAU, P. I. E., March 6.—With just 35,345 visitors to spare, the attendance at the Exposition passed the million mark yesterday. Thronged entered the grounds today for the Vanderlip race. A day earlier than estimated, the Exposition reached the milestone in attendance, and today saw another record-breaking crowd which made a good step toward two million.

Today's activities were many. Besides the cup race, which attracted the most visitors, there were elaborate concerts, the visit of the Master Painters who attended the Exposition in a body, and a number of other events. Tonight there will be a special program of fireworks and illuminations for which the following features have been announced.

WIDOW TELLS OF BRUTAL MURDER

Piedmont Youth Charged as Instigator, Reiterates Innocence.

Pathetic details of the tragedy enacted in the murder of "Angus Jack" Henderson in the Sierras in Fresno county by the Indian "Jeff" Lewis, who has related that Braxton A. Douglas, son of George A. Douglas of 121 Hillside avenue, Piedmont, told him how for the job, were recruited by Mrs. Dorothy Henderson, the widow, today.

Young Douglas, who is 22 years of age, was formerly a student in the Oakland high school. He went to the mountains two years ago for his health, being a sufferer from asthma. His father is a wealthy oil operator living in Piedmont. The two years ago he was in the mountains, and it is probable that he will be released on bail within a day.

"I do not believe Lewis' confession for the reason that I had never been introduced to Mr. Douglas and did not know him," she said. "I knew him as 'Doug,' as he was commonly called by people," said Mrs. Henderson.

"He did not want to be married, but I believe that my husband was killed because someone did want me."

During the conversation a new point in the case was brought out. "When Lewis appeared in the doorway after the shooting," she said, "he cried 'Why did you shoot my husband?' he answered: 'You shouldn't care; you'll get another husband.'"

"The confessions of the murderer, insists that Douglas hired him to commit the crime."

"I can say is that I am innocent," says Douglas. "They can hang me, but the fact is that I am innocent."

He tells his story as follows: "The first time Douglas approached me about the renting of my ranch and I said that I did not want to rent the ranch to him. He said: 'If you will make some money real bad, Jeff, I will give you $100 if you will kill 'Angus Jack.'"

Coroner Vindicates Dead Girl's Employer

By Associated Press. NEW HAVEN, March 6.—The coroner today completed his investigation of the circumstances surrounding the suicide of Lillian May Cook, the young Brooklyn stenographer whose body was found in West Rock Park Thursday. The coroner said he would issue a report Monday stating that Miss Cook's death was due to death by her own hand and that she and she alone was responsible for her act.

The coroner earlier in the day had read that Virginia J. May, former Miss Cook's employer, had been subpoenaed to appear before him as a witness and that the subpoena was returned Monday. State's Attorney Alling, in a statement today, said he was satisfied that Mr. May was not criminally responsible for the death of Miss Cook.

May later was instructed to disregard the subpoena.

An official connected with the investigation said that the physicians who had performed the autopsy upon Miss Cook had found certain conditions, one of which might have indicated preparation for an act of some kind, but nothing that would positively establish a cause for suicide.

WOMAN'S CHARGES FORCE PASTOR OUT

Rev. Cowley-Carroll of Ross Valley Will Seek New Fields.

With the addition of another chapter to the already five scandal of two years' standing, which has proved a cloud on the horizon of the congregation of St. John's Episcopal church of Ross Valley, the pastor, Rev. Hubert Cowley-Carroll, intends to resign.

Not that he is guilty of any wrong doing, but because it is considered by all concerned that the peace and dignity of the congregation would be better assured if the Rev. Cowley-Carroll was to leave the vicinity. And, besides, Rev. Cowley-Carroll has long contemplated seeking new fields.

The latest chapter was written last Wednesday night, when Mrs. J. K. Fields, the authoress of most of the trouble in the case, arose from her pew among the crowded church and repeated her charges of two years ago against the pastor. Before she could complete the chapter J. K. Armsby, one of the vestrymen, led her from the church, and Rev. Cowley-Carroll retired from the pulpit.

Last night, at a late hour, the vestrymen held a meeting at which the possible resignation of the pastor was discussed. No other action was taken than the issuance of the following statement:

"We, the vestrymen of St. John's church, do hereby state that the following statement with regard to Mrs. J. K. Fields' recent attack upon Mr. Carroll:

"The charges which this woman has made against Mr. Carroll are the same charges which were the subject of a ecclesiastical trial about two years ago. This trial resulted in Mr. Carroll's complete vindication. It does not, therefore, seem necessary to again inquire into their truth or to give them further notice."

"Every time that Mrs. Fields' woman has persistently fought to force her attentions upon Mr. Carroll, who has endured her persecutions in silence and patiently, and our deepest sympathy in any connection whatever with her. The result of this was that, finding her efforts vain, she became more and more enraged, and finally the climax was reached last Wednesday evening. After the conclusion of the services, when in the presence of several ladies and young girls, she gave vent to her rage in an indecent outburst of scandalous and obscene language."

"Naturally the vestry can no longer submit to such conduct, and they have decided to take a determined stand to prevent a recurrence of such scenes and to protect the people of the parish and the dignity of the church."

"The vestry is not prepared to institute any legal proceedings as may be necessary for this purpose."

Mr. Carroll has decided, against the advice of the vestry, to remain, which has implicit confidence in him, that it is for the best interest of the parish for him to resign, and he has accepted of a position there, which he will occupy after a sabbatical leave of two years, and he is determined to follow this course, even though it be against his personal inclination.

"We regret extremely his decision in the matter and cannot but feel that he is making an undue sacrifice."

"His resignation has not been formally presented."

"Mr. Carroll has for some time been contemplating a visit to New York City, Philadelphia in search of a broader field of study and has recently received an offer of a position there connected with the University of Pennsylvania."

"In conclusion, we wish to say that Mr. Carroll has our utmost sympathy in this most distressing affair."

(Signed) J. E. ARMSBY, ALLEN I. KITTLE, MILLER, CRITCHFIELD, JOINT VESTRYMEN. E. C. ROGERS, F. J. CRIST AND A. J. DIBBLE.

The first chapter in this affair was written in February, 1912, when Mrs. Fields, a physical attack upon Mr. Carroll in his church, at which time she is alleged to have attempted to stab the Rev. Cowley-Carroll with a hatpin. She emerged from the scuffle with a blacked eye, which she said was due to a ened eye, while she of the pastor, Rev. Cowley-Carroll had the woman arrested on a battery charge, but did not appear in court for the prosecution, and the case was dismissed.

Mrs. Fields then preferred charges against the Rev. Cowley-Carroll, claiming that he had a wife and, turning his attentions to herself, had prosecuted an ardent love campaign. She declared that the Rev. Cowley-Carroll had an hypnotic eye, and that he had swayed her will until she had become his slave. She also claimed that the church officials, after a trial, exonerated the pastor from all charges. This was two years ago.

Mrs. Fields, a year ago, left Ross, but she returned a few weeks ago. She went to church Wednesday evening, she said, because she had heard the pastor's wife declare that she, Mrs. Fields, did not dare to again enter St. John's church.

"When I took my pew Rev. Carroll went into the pulpit and preached of the woman whom Satan had induced to offer forbidden fruit," Mrs. Fields said, after having been taken from the church. "The whole service, even to the hymns, seemed directed at me. This goaded me on to renew my charges against this man."

"Although I have been strongly urged not to say, I think I will do so, as I am considering bigger work in the east," Rev. Cowley-Carroll remarked last night after the vestry meeting.

AMAZONS ASSAULT AND ROB TWO MEN

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Like the Amazons of old two women, possessed of a punch which was sufficient to put down any two men, succeeded this morning in carrying through a bold robbery at Vallejo and Mason streets and making their escape.

When the smoke of battle had cleared the women were unscathed, but their victims had to go to the hospital for repairs.

James Romagnoli, of 550 Vallejo street, was about to enter his home when the women approached and asked him the time. As he took out his watch they closed their hands, and he was unable to get the time.

A Pollini, went to Romagnoli's assistance. He thought he would have no difficulty in rescuing his friend, but was greeted with a stab in the right arm and a blow in the face, which dropped him to the pavement.

The women ran and Patrolman Cameron took Romagnoli and Pollini to the hospital.

TO be or not to be a debutante! That is the question that has assumed much importance in the series of debates of many households. The early part of each social season is given over to the debutante, for her family usually arranges to present her at some large function, usually at a reception, and oftener at some large dance. Many of the New York debutantes came out at Sherry's this season, while the Century Club, across the bay, offered the setting for many of the largest affairs in honor of the young girl debutante. The many friends of the family arrange complimentary affairs, and her first winter is a round of gaiety for the young girl. When she is engaged, a season or two later, the same round of gaiety begins again, so foreigners are usually right when they conclude that the American girl is very much in the heart of things social. "As others see us" is, indeed, interesting. That clever Mrs. Tweedle of England wrote a series of articles not long ago, which aroused intense interest in both England and America.

She is an extremely bright Englishwoman, of the London smart set, and she is very observing, and knows how to give wonderful word pictures of smart set life. It is amusing to read what she writes of the American de-butante, and it is instructive as well,

since it gives one much food for thought.

Mrs. Tweedle writes:

"Speaking of debutantes, how different things are in America from Great Britain. When a girl comes out with us, if her people can afford it, she is given a ball—coming-out dances are constant. If that girl's family is in a position to go to court, the girl makes her debut at one of the four or five courts given each spring

at Buckingham Palace. She must wear white for her presentation, and her four-yard train, having once been worn to make her curtsy to her sovereign, is quickly returned to the dressmaker to be fashioned into a second white evening gown, unless her own clever fingers can do the deed, as they often can and do. How proud

every English girl is of her presentation dress. It is almost as important to her as her marriage gown.

"When the cards are sent out by the mother for a ball, the daughter's name is not mentioned thereon, nor is any notification given on the invitation

that it is a coming-out party.

"In the states, it is otherwise. The debutante is made all-important; the fact of her advent in society is an-

ounced on the invitation card; she is made the heroine of the hour; bouquets are sent for her to carry; flowers are showered at her feet; everyone does her best gown; many dress up for the tea party as if it were a great evening function; and the facts are announced in the newspapers. One might think the whole internal machinery of the United States was at tandstill so important a function is a debutante's tea. That girl's advent

into society is of prodigious moment,

according to her friends and the press.

"Really, we might imagine that an American girl's entrance into society

was going to change the whole course of the world's history, it is anounced with such tom toms.

"The girls of America have far too

good a time: the married women too bad a one. Everything is done to amuse the girls. If they go to college

they don't come out till they are 21

or 22, but if they don't take up higher

work they come out at 18 years of age. Old age is sacrificed to youth.

Youth is too often sacrificed to old age in Europe. Anyway, the American girl has a perfectly lovely time.

In good society she does not go about alone. She is usually chaperoned, but the chaperone's fatigue counts for naught. She has her debutante tea,

her parties, her theaters, her dances;

she is sent flowers and sweets, is feted

and feasted and made a veritable princess. Everything gives way to the American girl.

"Let her enjoy life all she can, for

it will be very different when she marries.

"The French or English woman gets

her freedom with matrimony, the Yankee maid loses it. The man of the house leaves home early and returns

late. The servants are expensive and inefficient. The house settles itself down more or less. The children grow up. The mistress of the home finds relaxation in her club and turns to public work and philanthropic ideas,

or seriously takes up her own self-culture.

"Englishwomen may expect too much society from their men. American women certainly get too little.

MRS. C. A. HILBERT, WHO IS A PROMINENT MATRON OF SOCIETY.—Habenicht photo.

Important functions planned for young girls are daily announced in the papers. Such a thing is unknown in Europe, where girls come out or go in, and only personal friends ever hear about them.

"The day after the tea the press is informed of the list of young ladies who assisted in receiving and of the women who filled the distinguished office of 'pouring tea.'"

That is what Mrs. Alexander Tweedle of the aristocratic smart set of London thinks of our debutante of today.

Now that our season is over, an equally clever American woman writes of the debutante:

"The social season of 1915, so far as the New York debutante is concerned, is virtually over. She has made her bow to society, has been introduced to the friends of her mother and father, has been feted by relatives and friends of the family, despite the hard times, and is now fitted to take her place anywhere in the world, from a social standpoint.

"She can no longer hold the center of the stage, and whatever social entertainments are now given are not exclusively in her honor, while already many plans are being made in preparation for the debut of the younger sister, the debutante of 1916. Incidentally the one-year-old—that is, the debutante of this winter—is now entering upon an even more delightful phase of existence. She is far more independent than she was; she does not have to accept every invitation, for it is no longer essential to her social success that her name shall be on the list of 'among those present' and she can choose to her heart's content."

But there is another side that is worthy of consideration. It is said that there are far fewer debutantes in California, than in any other state of the Union. One reason ascribed is that the girls themselves are not so eager to be debutantes as of yore. College care free days being their own appeal. The girl who goes to college does not come out until four years after her friend, who graduates from one of "the finishing schools," or "the secondary schools," as the educators call them.

A girl does not like to be referred to as "A debutante of several seasons ago,"—and the social life incidental to debutante days does not appeal to every girl. It is too strenuous, and to great a change from the well ordered, quiet life of the school room.

Many girls make their debuts in deference to the old-time conservative ideas of the members of their families, and not because the gay round appeals to them. Many girls have talents, and it is surprising how well worth while the California girl often is. Some of the girls of the smart set are artists, some are musicians, some are writers, some are devoted to social service. One meets them at receptions, at teas, at luncheons, at dances, but one is impressed with the fact that the social activities are only part of a day's work—they are not the dominant factors in the young girl's life.

It is surprising also how many of the girls enjoy life in the country. They know how to manage country homes quite well, and girls whose inheritance has come to them have invested in farms, in quite a wonderful fashion. Life has fine horizons for the California girl. She is a charming debutante, if her family wish her to make a formal debut, and she is equally charming, and a very useful member of society if she chooses a career.

And it is quite right for Americans to make a great deal of the children of the home. They surely have a charming result,—for there is nothing in the world more frank, more sincere, more interesting than the carefully trained, beautifully brought up young American girl.

OF DEBUTANTES AND NEW YORK VISITORS.

But the debutantes of today have many wise examples to emulate in the older women of the smart sets. Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. P. Morgan, has written a very important book on "The Training of Girls." She wants them trained to be independent, so that they will not be helpless if anything "happens to father."

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., (Virginia Fair), is in San Francisco, having come west in her private car. She is among "the best dressed women" in America—but it is not dress that she cares to discuss. "Don't talk to me of 'styles,'" she says, "talk to me of the soup kitchen."

She is greatly interested in Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's scheme, that no woman shall go hungry in New York. Hence the "soup kitchen," the door of which leads to many things.

The debutantes each year in New York have what they call "The Junior Assembly." They have some big affair planned by themselves for charity. This they must do, immediately after the first dances are given for them. And the most prominent de-butante is usually the president of the society.

Miss Harriet Alexander, who is coming here with her mother, Mrs. C. S. Alexander, (Hattie Crocker), was one of the most successful presidents of this well-known young girls' organization. So that even if she is a debutante, it does not mean for the young girl a lack of social responsibility.

One saw some of Oakland's most interesting girls at "Ye Shoppe," where Daddy Long Leg's dolls were sold for the benefit of the Associated Charities. Among them were Miss Cleo Posey and the Misses Coogan. At the matinee on Saturday of "Daddy Long Legs," some interesting girls sold dolls and flowers, in the foyer, and up and down the aisles in the entire "actes." Among the girls were Margaret Moore, Miss Pussy Creed and Miss Priscilla Hall.

READ HERE OF EAST AND OF HOSPITALITY.

Hospitality is, of course, the best known characteristic of the Californian, and all the world coming to our coast, expects in a very definite fashion that some of this oft vaunted hospitality will come its way.

"For East is East and West is West And never the twain shall meet," sang Kipling, once upon a time. And never do they meet upon the plane of hospitality. They are very frank about things in New York. They put themselves out very little indeed for the strangers who are their guests. It is immensely amusing to listen to the woes of some of our Californians who have gone to New York expecting to have some of the courtesies they have bestowed upon friends returned. There has been nothing more than perhaps a formal dinner, and the Californian has been allowed to go his way.

Indeed they tell you quite frankly from New York, that now "is the time to settle the question as to whether New Yorkers are hospitable. The general impression throughout the country would seem to be that there is no other city in the Union where there is so little genuine hospitality. The stranger within the gates must be a personage of importance whose name must be spelled with a capital 'P' if he or she is to receive any attention that is worth while. No matter how apparently intimate a friendship has been formed away from home, there is little chance of that intimacy being continued when the New Yorker returns to his own fireside and the new acquaintance comes to New York and puts up at a hotel.

"There are few hostesses in New York who receive with equanimity the information that a hastily given invitation to 'visit me at any time convenient to you' has been taken in earnest and that the would-be guest expects to arrive within a week or two at the latest. This attitude is not due entirely to the wish to be inhospitable. Any popular hostess in New York has her book of invitations filled for days ahead for luncheon, auction and dinner, and she knows by sad experience that nothing will make her more unpopular among her friends than to ask for an invitation for a house guest."

Quite the reverse is the case here. Our popular society women have their engagement books filled to the limit, but they always make room for the visiting guest. It is a mark of true friendship to entertain for a guest who is visiting a friend, and the latter appreciates the compliment much more than if it had been offered to herself.

Very different is the case in New York. "To be well received the house guest must be some one well known to all the hostess's friends, and not only known but popular with them or worth knowing. The house guest may have been the most charming of hostesses in her own city, but that does not necessarily make her a popular house guest in New York, as she soon learns. It is easier to ask for an invitation for such a guest for a formal dinner for which invitations have been sent out a month in advance than for the smaller dinner with a limited number of guests. Most sensible is the stranger who realizes chance of being treated with attention."

"An extraordinary thing is that if once admitted and recognized she is then feted and entertained to such an extent that she goes back to her own city loud in the praises of New York hospitality. But the average man or woman who comes on without warning, and merely calls up different acquaintances to inform them of his or her arrival in town, stands the same chance as the unwelcome house guest of being thought a burden and of finding that all one's friendly acquaintances are so immersed in their own affairs that what they say is literally true—they have not one moment that is free to entertain any outsider."

One wonders what would happen, in these busy exposition days, if that were our code of manners, in the months to come—with many, many thousands of guests heading our way. We have to entertain many "outsiders" and we are not asking if they are beautiful, or rich, or talented. We simply know they are friends of our friends. And if they bring us a letter from relatives—that is all we want to know. "Our home is yours"—said the old motto of the good Californian. We will show the world that we are not too busy to answer the little click at the latch string—which shows that the stranger is at the door. The California women announces to the world that she is "At Home."

IT IS DONE DIFFERENTLY IN OAKLAND SOCIETY.

In our own city, card after card comes to us, with the line written on it: "To meet Mrs. A." And her hostess introduces her, and immediately there is a round of affairs for her, some of them informal, all of them delightful. The guest goes to club functions, to teas, to receptions, to card parties—everybody seems glad to see her—she feels that she is welcome, she sees life from new angles. She feels that she has made new friends, and she goes away feeling that something different from anything she has ever known has come into her life. The warmth of a true hospitality has brought out the best things in herself, and she feels that the California women are the most charming she has ever known.

Sometimes in New York a tea is given for a visiting guest. The result is certainly not encouraging:

"The hostess can send out cards in advance of her arrival asking her friends to tea to meet Miss or Mrs. So-and-So. The chances are ten to one that only one in ten of those who receive cards will take the trouble to go to the tea, and those who do are often too tired to do more than speak to the hostess. Such a thing as calling upon the guest they have been asked to meet or inviting her to their houses is rarely thought of; they may send cards the next day but in very few instances is there any invitation extended."

That condition of things absolutely could not happen in California.

And so it is that the busiest year of their lives is now upon the women of our state. They must entertain their own friends who come from the East. They must be ready to entertain guests of their friends who find themselves visitors in California. There are also the people from other counties of the state who descend upon us, and to whom we would extend a warm welcome. Wise is the hostess who makes rules for her guests in this servantries land. One well-known woman of the smart set has her sleeping porch well equipped with comfortable couches, and extra beds are provided in the large rooms. Breakfast is served to everyone—the luncheon and dinner hours never vary. If guests choose to arrive for dinner they are welcome; but no late dinners are served. And under these circumstances, peace is preserved and everybody is happy.

ALAMEDA COUNTY'S WOMEN AT EXPOSITION.

All this is apropos of exposition days, for of course, it is the exposition which absorbs the thoughts of many well known hostesses of the smart sets around the bay.

The Woman's Board of the exposition has sent over a call to Alameda county—to Mrs. A. C. Posey—and it has been requested that our county hostess the California building next week.

Mrs. Posey has placed the duties in the hands of the various chairmen, and each section of the county will be represented during the week.

The following assignments have been made by Mrs. Posey: Monday, Mrs. J. S. Emory, representing Emeryville; Tuesday, Mrs. C. R. Lloyd, representing Berkeley; Wednesday, Mrs. Beach Soule, for Piedmont; Thursday, Mrs. Philip Teller, for Alameda; Friday, Mrs. G. W. Harrison, for West Oakland; Saturday, Mrs. J. R. Scupham and Mrs. Dudley Kinzell, for Central and North Oakland.

POOR OLD NIETZSCHEL

SUES TEACHER FOR SON'S SPANKING

VETERAN COAST FANS WHO RECALL STIFEL FAVOR FEDS

Otto and Comiskey, the Two Live Wires of East and Middle West

BY MR. MILDPOON.

Even out here they talk of the baseball war that is going on in the far east. Comiskey has great friendship for the Federal League, owing to the fact that Otto Stifel, head of the St. Louis Federals, is so well known to veteran sportsmen now residing on the coast.

Stifel and Comiskey in the eyes of California sportsmen are the two live-wires of the eastern and middle west sporting colony.

Comiskey has made himself beloved by his numerous visits to the coast and his whole-souled generosity, and Stifel is known through his long friendship for Barney Schreiber, who was at one time the best-known bookmaker on the Pacific Coast.

It was Schreiber and Lucky Baldwin who built the great course at Los Angeles and those days Stifel was looking on as the power behind the Schreiber throne.

Strange to say, although Stifel and Combs are rivals now in the great baseball war they have always been the warmest friends personally.

Stifel has always been a lover of outdoor sport and years ago he was one of the best patrons the thoroughbred turf had in St. Louis.

He went along in a quiet way just as he is going along now in the baseball line.

Nearly twenty years ago with John W. Senor, the Memphis brewer, Stifel owned the St. Louis Cardinals, the team which winning thoroughbreds as Vortex, Wightman, Empera, Margaret A. and others.

But only a small caper on the turf, however, compared to what Stifel looked for and in the fall of 1904 he told his friends that in the World's Fair year he was going to take a stab at the big game.

He had a stable of thoroughbreds that would make him sit up and take notice.

ing the mare into the best going he came on like a whirlwind and beat the record.

The race was worth $41,500 to the winner, $6000 to second horse, Herald; $2000 to third, Mocha; and $750 to the fourth horse, Torpedo.

Stifel won nearly $2,000 on that rare and spent half of that paying his friends and friends of friends.

With the forces of organized baseball beat that sort of sportsman?

When I went to St. Louis to plead with Stifel to get out of the game he said:

"I asked him that question."

"What do you think?" he asked me.

"Yes you might beat Otto," I replied.

"I don't want to go to St. Louis with men and guns chasing, but you can't beat him with law suits and newspaper talk."

And Combs said: "Perhaps you're right, but I don't want to go to St. Louis on our league that have loads of money all I want to fight. So there you are."

And one of these men, Charles W. Mansel,

A few days later the turf world was startled when word came from Louisville that Stifle had gone to Kentucky Park at Memphis and bought in the stable of race horses owned and trained by the late Charles Rowe.

In this year's racing season, a girl, one of the nominations for the $50,000 World's Handicap to be run Aug. 15th at 1 1/2 m. over the St. Louis Fair Grounds course. I mention this race and this incident to show the importance of Stifle's race and that organized baseball has to deal with.

No race ever run in the West attracted more attention than this one.

It was a horse race, but the one who had won the Suburban, showing his heels all the way to eastern and western cracks, was to be the first to start in the New York City try for the World's Fair prize.

Mrs. J. R. Thomas, widow of General Thomas, who was killed in the Spanish war, had been in the city for some time. Her husband, R. Thomas, drew out of the St. Louis banks $50,000 on the Saturday morning after the war, and he took it back to her in the city, and she gave it to the commissioners to get it all on Hermis any old price.

On the same day brought a crank roll of the city that was hard to crank and put every dollar on his Colonial Girl. He received the July 2d of 15 to 1.

Jockey Redfern in pilotine Hermis took the race, and the Suburban was in front in New York for the first time stand shouted:

"The Suburban over again."

As they passed the grand stand for the first time Hermis was still leading the race, and the Suburban was still in front. In Indianapolis the Suburban riding as easily as a farmer going to market.

Hans Oht, the Pacific coast amateur champion cyclist, who for the past three years, rode and starred for the local New Century Wheelman will in the future be a member of the New York City team. He has proven himself the speediest of all amateur cyclists in this State and at Salt Lake City, where he won the first prize in the lake majority of the races he started in. Out of the season's starts (24 in number) he won 12, lost 10, and had 2 draws, two, three or four in the rest, only failing to place in one race where he rode for the first time.

Floyd McFarlin, manager of the eastern circuit summer track, has invited the Suburban to start in the American ship races this summer at the western tracks and Oht will leave about April 1 to start in the American ship races. He will slide under the Olympic colors in races against riders of the New York City team, and the Suburban will be in the Athletic club and also foreign athletes. It is a number of years since the Olympic games were held in the United States, and it is certain that their colors should rank high in the Panama-Pacific championship.

PILLOWS USED AS CO-EDS' WEAPONS

Garden Hose Also Is Figure in Class "Rush" at Stanford.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 6.—Stanford co-eds of the freshmen class trucked wearily along the quad to late classes this morning. Some limped noticeably, some tried by using powder to hide scratches on their faces, some remained in their rooms most of the day, all had red eyes. Last night the girls of the baby class staged a rush with their superior, the sophomore girls.

Following their return from a picnic at Woodside, a mountainside village near Redwood City, the girls took the campus by storm. The quietude and solitude of the college community was rent with a mixture of cries, yells, cheers and shrieks that were distinctly feminine.

The freshmen girls were met by sophomores at the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority house, and the battle for class supremacy was waged. Pillows and water from the garden hose were used freely in the struggle. Although the freshmen girls got the worst of it, they forced an entrance to the sorority house. Most of the baby class girls were locked out of the sorority houses and were forced to spend the night in Palo Alto.

NO LEGION CROSS GIVEN MISS REDDING, SAYS PA

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Joseph D. Redding, the author and composer, who returned to San Francisco yesterday from the East, expressed surprise this morning that a report had reached here to the effect that his daughter, Miss Josephine Redding, had been given the Legion of Honor by the French government. According to the honor she was bestowed upon her at the request of General Joffre because of bravery she had displayed as a nurse in caring for the wounded on the battlefield.

Mr. Redding said that as far as he knows there is absolutely no truth in the report of his daughter being so signally honored. He considers it unlikely such an honor has been bestowed upon her and says that if every girl, French or American, who has displayed bravery in the war hospitals were given a Legion of Honor there would not be enough of those decorations to go around.

The Legion of Honor is one of the most highly prized decorations of the French government, and it was only recently that it was awarded to Sarah Bernhardt, the noted actress.

GUILITY OF ARSON.

SEATTLE, March 6.—B. Rosenthal, a merchant tailor, whose place of business was burned in February, 1914, was convicted by a jury in the Superior Court last night of arson in the second degree. Rosenthal was alleged to have arranged with a man known as "Silk" Kelly to burn the store. Kelly received $100. Witnesses for the state testified that Kelly and Ben Ehrlich, both of whom have fled, were agents of an organized "arson syndicate," which made a business of setting afire business establishments which were not prospering, not only in Seattle but in other cities and towns throughout the Pacific Northwest.

How Two Men Cured LaGrippe

"Last winter I suffered with a terrible cold and a case of la grippe," writes F. C. Rhodes of Middleton, Ga. "When getting well of la grippe I still had a hacking cough and for several months could get no relief. Finally I began taking Foley's Honey and Tar and soon I was well of both cough and cold and it never returned."

F. C. Perry, Bedford, Ind., writes: "After having an attack of la grippe it left me with a severe cough and I tried everything. I lost in weight and got so thin it looked as though I was dying. I got well. I tried Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and two bottles cured me. I am now well and back to normal weight."

Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a healing family remedy and seldom fails to relieve coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, raw and inflamed throat, tight and sore chest, irritated tickling throat and bronchial coughs. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

CALIFORNIA ORANGE DAY, MARCH 20TH.

WHO WAS WRONG, THE COW OR THE MAN IN THE AUTO?

HAYWARD, March 6.—Is there a "right" and a "wrong" side to a road where a cow and an automobile are concerned? This is a nice point in motoring law arising out of an accident on the Boulevard at Ashland last night when Joseph Rodriguez, a Hayward contractor, ran into and killed a cow owned by Arthur Vargas, a farmer.

Vargas, who saw the accident, which occurred just before dark, claims Rodriguez was on the wrong side of the road. Rodriguez says that he wasn't to blame, since the cow didn't respect the rules of the road in the slightest and veered from one side to another in the most disconcerting manner.

He could have passed the cow easily enough, he says, and had plenty of room, but the cow wheeled right in his path at the crucial moment and caused the smash. Vargas holds another view and declares Rodriguez was at fault in driving on the wrong side, which, in his opinion, was the direct cause of the accident.

Constable W. J. Kinnane was called to settle the dispute between the two men, which will probably result in a suit for damages. Vargas values the cow at $100. Rodriguez' auto was slightly damaged by the collision, but he was unhurt.

LOBOS CREEK BATTLE IS WON BY MILITARY

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Lobos creek, San Francisco's original water supply, regarding which the Spring Valley Water Company and the Federal Government have been waging a legal battle for years, is about to become the exclusive property of the military authorities. Negotiations for its purchase were completed yesterday on terms, it is said, most advantageous to the government.

Said Dennis P. Quinn, a sitting judge-advocate of the western department of the army, full credit is due, according to the department officers, for the successful consummation of the deal.

Lobos creek has a daily flow of 2,500,000 gallons of water. The Government has been purchasing from Spring Valley half of the daily flow, or just sufficient water to supply the Presidio, Fort Winfield Scott and Fort Miley with water, even then occasionally going short, particularly in summer, when the demand for water is great.

In July, 1914, because of a tremendous water shortage at military posts, the War Department declared Lobos creek forfeited to the United States Government under a state law on riparian rights and also because of a brief submitted by Captain Quinn to the effect that when the boundaries of the Presidio reservation were altered, in December, 1851, the lands released by the War Department did not pass into private ownership, but reverted to the Interior Department.

Quinn's contentions at that time were that, inasmuch as the lands never did belong to the state, they could not revert to the state. When Quinn contended in his briefs that the San Francisco Water Company was organized, in 1857, and claimed Lobos creek as its own, it made an erroneous claim, inasmuch as the land relinquished by the military authorities reverted only to the National Government authorities. Spring Valley could not, under the law, get title from the state, because the state could give no title.

GOVERNOR PROMISES TO HAVE ROADS REPAIRED

John Jordan, manager of the Oakland-Berkeley Hotel and Apartment Association, received a letter this morning from Governor Johnson, stating that he had received the information concerning the condition of the roads leading into Oakland and will take the matter up without further delay with the road commission.

Johnson said that he was not aware of the deplorable condition of these roads and that the matter should and would be rectified without further delay.

As a result of Jordan's conference with the board of supervisors on the subject, Supervisor Murphy has gone to Sacramento to confer with the Governor on the matter.

LAW SUIT IS SETTLED.

EUGENE, Ore., March 6.—The suit of the Williamson Pacific against the owners of the Johnson-Anderson rock quarry, just below Mapleton, was settled out of court yesterday. The fight over a stretch of right-of-way held up the construction work on the road from Mapleton to Coos Bay. Announcement was made tonight that work would be resumed at once and the road completed as rapidly as possible.

POLICE VS. PLAY- GROUNDS, ISSUE

Mayor Urges Recreation Centers at Meeting of Club Women.

Whether there will be more policemen and no more additional playgrounds or more playgrounds and fewer policemen is a question facing Oakland today, according to Mayor Mott yesterday at a luncheon of the Oakland New Century Club, where he was a guest, together with several members of the playground commission, the mayor expressed a fear that the municipal recreation centers might suffer in coming years.

"You hear a lot of talk about the tax rate," he said. "Various candidates are talking about reducing that rate. Now it cannot be reduced—unless the valuation is raised—without reducing the departments. The playground and park commissions would probably be attacked first. They should be the very last."

"By play and park facilities we make better citizens. We reduce criminals; we put down the police force. And like police force costs a pile of money," he reflected. "If we had less people parading around committing crimes, we'd need less policemen."

"So, when the tax levy comes up, you want to stop and think. You must realize that money spent on parks and playgrounds is money well expended."

The luncheon, which was held at the settlement on Fifth and Peralta streets, was a preliminary to a discussion of the playground from every angle. Mrs. Robert Watt, the president of the club, introduced the speakers, beginning with Mrs. John Newton Porter, who laid before the mayor West Oakland's need of a playground.

Mrs. Porter, who is chairman of the boys' club, described the character of the district, the work of the club, and especially emphasized the lack of play facilities for the smallest children. Mrs. Burr Sloan and Mrs. E. J. Fietz told of the work conducted at the settlement. The "house mother," Mrs. George Bird, described the kind of children who came under her supervision, and their exceptional need of play outlets.

OLD FOR YEARS.

"I used to wonder why they came knocking at the door at 7 and half past 7 in the morning, when other children can hardly be dragged out of bed in time for school. Then I found that their mothers worked away from home, and that their whole families had to get up early. The precocity of these children is such, according to Mrs. Bird, that at 2½ years of age they are more shrewd than the protected children of double their age. More than others, she said, these needed the swings and baseball, and play facilities."

In answer Mayor Mott gave the history of the playground board from the time it was looked upon with ridicule to its flourishing present. Saying that the one thing in which he took more pride than any other was the inauguration of the playground system, he added that this was due to the devotion and ability of the board. "The only fear I have in retiring," he added, "is that my successor may wish to supplant with others these splendid workers."

Admitting that West Oakland, despite its obvious need, had been neglected in the way of play centers, the mayor drew attention to the limited revenue of the city.

URGES EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

W. Wieland, a director of boys' clubs at the settlement, suggested that an employment bureau be formed where boys could find occupation to earn pocket money during their spare time. "From this cosmopolitan district are coming the big men of Oakland," he asserted, in describing the value of any effort expended in improving the locality.

In conclusion a recreation scheme of extensive proportions was advocated by Prof. H. Kover. Kover wanted a small playground in the center of every block, and added that they were inevitable. These small playgrounds were to be fitted with sand boxes and swings for small children. Large centers for the physical development of boys by baseball, football and other games came next. The third feature he advocated was the center for the social development. Among the essential furniture conducive to such development he enumerated a fireplace and gymnasiums.

EATS OYSTERS; DIES.

CHICAGO, March 6.—Mrs. Gustave Noe of 3609 Sheffield avenue died after an illness of a few hours, which was ascribed to ptomaine poisoning. A postmortem will be performed to determine the exact cause of death. Mrs. Noe gave birth to a child six weeks ago and had not recovered her health. Friday evening she ate oysters and soon afterward became ill.

ATHLETES ARE READY.

NEW YORK, March 6.—Athletes who will compete tonight in the intercollegiate indoor championships at Madison Square Garden are in prime condition, according to their coaches. Because of the large entry and the novelty of the men competing the groups, coaches disagreed as to the probable winners.

ROAD UNABLE TO DO WORK, CLAIMS

Lack of Profit Hampers Missouri Pacific, Is Testimony.

CHICAGO, March 6.—Lack of profit has prevented the Missouri Pacific rail road system from working adequate improvement in many parts of its 7200 miles. Benjamin F. Bush, president of the road, testified today in the interstate commerce commission hearing on the proposed new railroad's application for higher rates. Bush asserted that, while his road was spending more than ever before in maintenance, the demands of the shippers for better service and the regulations of state and the Federal commissions made the expenditure so great as to be out of proportion to the income.

"No, the effects are present and to be

In some parts of the south and southwest the witness said the roadbed was such that new ballast had to be applied at regular intervals regardless of the season.

Clifton Thorne, representing all the shippers, asked Bush if the Missouri Pacific had made any bad investments. The witness replied that prior to his connection with the road the Missouri Pacific had invested $13,000,000 in the Washburn and had considered it a bad investment. He said the Missouri Pacific had invested $15,000,000 in the Denver and Rio Grande.

LIFE TERM SENTENCE IMPOSED ON FOWLER

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—With his pallid face showing no trace of emotion, Vernon Fowler, dressed with being one of the three pillowy bandits who killed Willie Fessett at the home of George P. Neal in Oak street on December 15, heard a jury declare him guilty of murder in the first degree in the courtroom of Superior Judge Franklin Griffith last night. The jury specified that the penalty for Fowler should be life imprisonment.

The jury filed into the court with the verdict at 9 o'clock, a half hour after it had retired to deliberate. The verdict was a compromise one, the original ballot standing 10 to 2 for murder in the first degree with the death penalty. The two jurors holding out for life imprisonment won over the ten others by the argument that no direct evidence had been produced at the trial to show that Fowler fired the shot that had killed Fessett.

FEIGNS WRECK TO DESTROY VESSELS

Steamer, Bearing Small Guns,
Is Terror of the Pacific.

By Associated Press.
TOKIO, March 6.—The Japanese steamer Lurua, which is said to be active in the Indian ocean, has been reported to be shipwrecked, attempting to break through the ice in the Bering sea.

There have been several conflicting reports regarding the steamer Lurua. When the German cruiser Emden was sunk off the Australian coast, the Lurua was reported to be the only vessel to escape. These men were members of a landing party which was on the island at the time of the battle. They were given an enthusiastic reception by the Turkish troops.

A British report stated that the crew of the Lurua had captured a collier on the coast of the island of Java, and had been making raids on commerce. On December 15 the French Ministry of Marine announced that the auxiliary cruiser Empress of Japan had captured the collier with the crew on board. A Berlin despatch on February 5, however, said that the Lurua had reached Hodeida, Arabia, where the members of the crew were given an enthusiastic reception by the Turkish troops.

CONVICTED OF MURDER; JURY SITS AT NIGHT

David Logan, colored, who shot and killed John Brooks in West Oakland last December, was found guilty of murder in the second degree by a jury in Superior Judge Wells court at 11:30 last night. The case was heard by the defendant, who was represented by Attorney A. L. Frick and Attorney Hudson. Friends of the defendant flocked into the courtroom during the week's taking of testimony. Assistant District Attorney James M. Koford and Deputy Myron Harris appeared for the people.

BUSINESS MEN TO OCCUPY PULPITS

Will Explain to Churches Regarding Y. M. C. A.
Campaign.

Pulpits in all Oakland churches will be occupied tomorrow by business men, who will deliver short talks, explaining the campaign now under way to raise funds for the Oakland Young Men's Christian Association. No collection will be taken up in connection with the talks, but the object of the campaign is to secure the cooperation of the churches and to prepare the way for the five weeks of workers engaged in raising funds.

Several of the men will do double duty, speaking in the morning at one church and in the evening at another. William Nat Friend, formerly of the ministry, will be introduced in the morning service at the First Presbyterian church by the Rev. Francis J. Van Horn, and in the evening he will talk at the Central Methodist Church. Robert Robertson, president of the Merchants' Exchange, will also speak at two churches.

The reports from the teams last night raised the total subscriptions to $2543. This team will deliver the campaign for the remaining three days and will raise for the money for a vigorous canvass for the money.

The men who will tell church congregations tomorrow of the needs of the Y. M. C. A. and of the generous offer of Wallace M. Alexander to cancel a debt of over $11,000, if the association would raise $10,000 are as follows:

PATROLMAN F. W. NORMAN RESCUES BRONZE EAGLE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—When Patrolman Fred W. Norman, son of Sergeant Frank Norman, for years chief clerk of the police department, was a small boy, his parents inculcated into his mind a spirit of patriotism. Therefore it was not strange this morning when following an automobile crash, in which the safety station at Stockton and Market streets, was partially demolished and the big six-cylinder car was wrecked, he should have seen only an American eagle on the debris. After he had looked over what remained of a perfectly good machine and a concrete station, Norman spotted a bronze eagle which had been dropped from its pedestal. Tucking it under his arm he made his way to the Central Police station, leaving the automobile with robes and tools to the discretion of the pavement.

J. F. Wilson of 222 Sacramento street, in company with a young woman, was driving the car. After the wreck occurred he left the machine and took his companion home. Later this morning the car was taken in charge by the owner, J. A. Danste of 112 Wolfe street.

RAILROAD WINS LEGAL FIGHT FOR TERMINAL

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—The Supreme Court handed down a unanimous decision yesterday, finally closing one of the most important and bitterly contested cases tried in the Sacramento Valley.
The Vallejo and Northern Railroad Company condemned for terminal purposes 104 acres of the land of the Reed Orchard Company, including 2200 feet of water front, opposite the business district in Sacramento.

The trial of the action lasted two months and a half and a decision was rendered in favor of the railroad company, fixing the figure of $1600 per acre as the price to be paid for the tract of land taken, and half a million dollars less than that claimed by the defendant.

PLAN FUNERAL OF EX-SENATOR BARD

Late Statesman, Who Passed Away While Asleep, Led California Spirit.

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—Arrangements are being completed today for the funeral of Thomas R. Bard, former United States Senator from California, who died yesterday at his home at 1120 North Hollywood boulevard. He was 74 years of age. Each came as he slept. Bard was stricken while in bed Thursday evening, and a physician was called at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and restoratives applied. The aged statesman fell into a deep sleep and died at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Bard and two daughters, Berd and Anna, were at the bedside when death came. Two other daughters, Mrs. Homer Edwards and Mrs. B. Stand, have been summoned to the funeral. There are also three sons, Thomas, Earl, of San Francisco, Richard Bard, who is at Princeton, and Philip Bard.

Senator Bard, like many other leaders in the development of California, came to this state as a young man and came in his lot with the fortunes of a wide area. He was a native of Chambersburg, Franklin county, Pa., where he was born December 8, 1841. Thomas R. Bard became a citizen at the age of one.

He attended the Chambersburg academy for a time, and at the age of 17 entered on the study of the law. But his health was not of the best and he was forced to resign that ambition. His attention turned to commercial channels and he became associated with the house of Zeller & Co., Hagerstown, Md., in 1857.

MANAGED OIL LANDS.
Thomas A. Scott, then Secretary of War and later president of the Pennsylvania railroad, became interested in Senator Bard and commissioned him to take entire charge of his vast oil lands in Southern California, amounting to several hundred thousand acres. Accordingly, in the fall of 1884, he set out for California, and upon his arrival took up the administration of the property, which presented all the difficulties of an advanced frontier post in a wild country, where the population was scarce and not overly respectable. He met with much resistance from a horde of squatters, who attempted to wrest part of the Scott land from his control.

He located at Ventura in 1885, and two years later was elected to the board of supervisors, a post he held until 1871. In the next year he was chosen a commissioner to organize the county government, a task completed with satisfaction to all divisions of the community. In 1877 Senator Bard ran for the state senate on the Republican ticket, being defeated by a very small majority. In 1884 he appeared on the scene of national politics as a delegate to the Republican national convention which nominated Blaine for President. He filed this commission again in 1892 as a Presidential elector, being the only Republican elected in a Democratic victory.

ELECTED AS SENATOR.
It was in 1899 that Senator Bard came prominently before the California public in connection with a vacancy in the senate. The legislature of the state was split into many factions over the nomination of an incumbent, the deadlock lasting more than a year. Senator Bard's name was proposed, and by degrees it became evident that he would meet the wishes of all parties more than any other man. His election followed in February, 1900, and for five years he was a member of the United States Senate.

It was in 1909 that Senator Bard came prominently before the California public in connection with a vacancy in the senate. The legislature of the state was split into many factions over the nomination of an incumbent, the deadlock lasting more than a year. Senator Bard's name was proposed, and by degrees it became evident that he would meet the wishes of all parties more than any other man. His election followed in February, 1900, and for five years he was a member of the United States Senate.

Senator Bard married Miss Mary Beatrice Gerberding of San Francisco on April 11, 1878. Of eight children the following have survived: Beryl Beatrice, Mary Louise (Mrs. R. G. Edwards), Anna Greenwell, Thomas Gerberding, Elizabeth Parker (Mrs. Reginald C. Shand), Richard and Archibald Philip Bard.

For five years before his death Senator Bard lived in practical retirement on his splendid estate at Huemans, Ventura county. This is one of the show places of the state.

COURT GRANTS ORDER IN SCAVENGER LITIGATION
Following the recent litigation in which the Scavengers' Association of the City of San Francisco, concerned the Italian Popular Bank of Oakland, as depository for the organization, has requested that it be forbidden by court from disbursing any association funds. Seeking court action in the matter, the bank officials have filed a petition for an injunction, or any unpleasantness incidental to the protection of the funds in its care. The order was granted.

BURGERS BUSY AGAIN.
SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—The East Asiatic Company, 253 California street, complained this morning to the police that articles to the value of $215 had been stolen from pier 38. The Curry salmon, Post and Market streets, was ransacked last night and $30.15 taken from the cash register.

CORPORATION'S CHIEF PLANS BRANCH BUREAU

By Associated Press.
SACRAMENTO, March 6.—It was announced yesterday that the blue sky commissioner, with headquarters in this city, would be forced to establish at an early date a branch office in Los Angeles. Los Angeles organizers more corporations than the rest of the state. Carnahan will be in charge of the southern office, while Morris Brown, his assistant, will control the main office.
In Sacramento there are now six investigators, one engineer and four stenographers. The staff here probably will be increased before long, besides the additions for the Los Angeles office.
"The department is nearly organized," said Brown. "In a few more days we will be in a position to make almost immediate investigations of all permits. Corporations are seeking permits at the rate of ten a day. If this average continues this department will pass upon the merits of 3300 new corporations each year."

MATRON OF SCHOOLS ACCUSED OF NEGLECT

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 6.—Charges that feeble-minded children were kicked, beaten and otherwise brutally treated, and that no safeguards were taken against the spread of infectious diseases, were among those filed last night against Mrs. Mary C. Dunphy, superintendent of the New York City hospitals and schools on Randall's Island, by Commissioner John A. Kingsbury of the department of charities of this city. Mrs. Dunphy was directed to appear for hearing before Kingsbury here on Saturday of next week.
The charges are the outcome of an investigation begun at the direction of Commissioner Kingsbury four months ago.
A charge of failure to provide sufficient food is also made.
Mrs. Dunphy was shown a summary of the findings before the charges were preferred against her, and it was said she characterized them as a conspiracy to put her out of office.
